Exploration of the Autobiographical Elements in Kamala Das's poems

Abstract:

Autobiography is a form of writing where the writer articulates his or her life, thus the inspiration from where the idea has emerged, is explicitly linked up with real life. Analyse of their work alongside the real life-story will help readers to understand their work and to easily spot features that are similar to that person's own life. Kamala Das is no exception in this prospect. Her references in poems are so vivid that they can be considered as mirror of her life, presented with artistic touch. Her poems are an outcry of her personal experiences and reaction against situations that she was imposed.

Key Words:

Autobiography, woman, experience, life, poetry, Das.

Theme of Alienation and Conciliation in Nissim Ezekiel's poetry

Abstract:

Nissim Ezekiel's subtle use of alienation and conciliation in his poetry makes him a foundational figure in postcolonial India's literary history. Ezekiel, being a Bene-Israeli Jew by birth, being a Mumbaikar, perceives a sense of alienation in the heart of "Mayanagri". The city of dreams fulfills the desire of its residents, on the other hand gifts them loneliness. Besides, the villagers of India always aid one another, they never left anyone unaccompanied. Ezekiel shows the culture and custom of Indians, the Indianness in his writings very artfully.

Key Words:

Alienation, Outsider, Reconcile, Ezekiel.

Introduction:

Nissim Ezekiel, in many of his poetry, designated the theme of alienation and conciliation as an egregious factor. The term "alienation" comes from the Latin word "alienus" which means “of another place or person”. The term was first coined by German philosopher
